

Digital TV is now in 47 per cent of Australian homes

According to the Department of Broadband, Communications and the Digital Economy, 47 per cent of households have at least one digital TV.

Homes with digital television

